

The shifted flow leaves the line at $t > 0$ and some zeros cross back: the claim that zeros sit on $\text{Re } s = \frac{1}{2}$ only at Eulerian times is false

